

very impressed. the decor has a trendy hipster feel that fits right into its college campus the coffee though, was world's better than anything i drank while at i loved that it was open, but secluded at the same time; i could meet with somebody and have it feel intimate